

Citation Elements in order:

- ① Author: David Pogue
- ② Title of post: Some E-Books Are More Equal than Others
- ③ Name of blog: Pogue's Posts: The Latest in Technology from David Pogue
- ④ Publisher: The New York Times
- ⑤ Publication date: Friday, July 17, 2009
- ⑥ Format: Web
- ⑦ Date of access: July 24, 2009

Document Example:

Proper Citation Format:

MLA citations are double-spaced and indented after the first line.

Pogue, David. "Some E-Books Are More Equal Than Others." Pogue's Posts: the Latest in Technology from David Pogue. The New York Times, 17 July 2009. Web. 24 July 2009.

Parenthetical Reference:

Many documents that originate on the Web don't have page numbers, so skip them in the parenthetical reference. Put parenthetical references at the ends of your sentences.

He reported on the ironic disappearance of George Orwell's Animal Farm from Kindle e-book readers (Pogue).